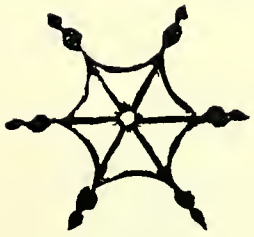
PRESENTING

THE J.C.

FOR THE STUDENT BODY OF
THE JOLIET JUNIOR COLLEGE
AT JOLIET, ILLINOIS 1937



THE ANNUAL YEAR BOOK VOL. V.

THE AUTUMN

MISS CHRISTINE E. BUNCH

The student body owes a debt of gratitude to Miss Christine Bunch, for the responsibility of producing the Junior College year-book rests upon her capable shoulders. She has been sponsor ever since the first book was published in 1933.

Few people realize the tremendous labor expended in the publication of an annual. The work on the book commences almost immediately after school begins in September and continues unceasingly until the close. Miss Bunch is the active supervisor throughout the year. The burden of organizing and unifying the various divisions of the book, which have been worked out by different students, lies with the sponsor, who has undertaken her duties cheerfully, and we should consider ourselves fortunate to have a pilot at the helm who is just as successful in bad times as good.

That Miss Bunch has been extremely successful in this capacity is evidenced by the rating which the book received last year. The 1936 annual was one of the few books given a First Class Honor Rating by the National Scholastic Press Association; and if the present book surpassed this, it would not be at all surprising.

SO "GLAD" TO BE BACK IN SCHOOL!

THE AUTUMN

UPPER—

ADMINISTRATION

Dr. W. W. Haggard, superintendent of J. T. H. S. and J. J. C., received his bachelor's degree from Maryville college, his M. A. from the University of Michigan, and his Ph. D. from the University of Chicago. He likes to play golf, to take automobile trips, and to read history, economics, an occasional novel, and the current magazines that stress politics and social problems. Dr. Haggard also enjoys his daily one-and-a-half mile walk to school.

Mr. Ira D. Yaggy, well-liked College Dean, received his master's degree from the University of Chicago. He was elected president of the Illinois Junior College Conference and also holds the position of vice-president of the University of Illinois Teachers' Conference. He is fond of flowers, and gardening is a much enjoyed summer diversion for him.

Miss Myra Mather, beloved dean of Women, received her master's degree from the University of Illinois. She also attended the University of Berlin, Germany, for a year. She enjoys traveling, reading, and attending the theatre.

Miss Pauline Dillman, college librarian, has attended the University of Illinois. She is interested in her work and has written articles that appear in the Junior College Journal. This year she has devoted much time to a comprehensive study of library equipment and arrangement, in view of remodeling the present library.

Grace Stadler, secretary to Dean Yaggy, was graduated from the Joliet Junior College. She is a loyal supporter of and an enthusiastic participant in many student activities.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

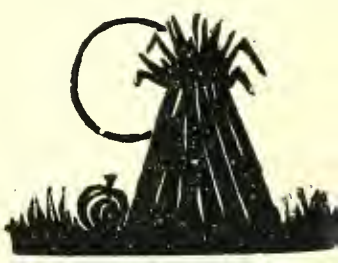
With a firm conviction that something was going to be done this year, the student council went to work in earnest, and really made some noteworthy accomplishments.

The reins of administration were in the hands of Norman Bitterman, president, assisted by Helen Kelly, vice-president, with Henry Luccock transcribing all transactions. Mr. R. L. Frisbie was the faculty guiding hand.

A Booster Board was established in order to give publicity to all college affairs, so that not only would collegians know what was going on in the school, but the public would also be well informed. The Booster Board helped any bewildered publicity committee in making smooth connections for newspaper and radio notices.

Because the present council constitution had become out-moded and was not adaptable to the best interests of the college, a new one was adopted. Its outstanding features provided for a more equal representation of the students in the council, fairer election laws to govern student elections, and a better means of checking expenditures from the student activity fees.

In sponsoring school dances, the usual practice was to appoint one council member as dance chairman and give him power to choose his own committee from outside the council. With this plan the council not only had more time to discuss other problems, but more students were given the chance to help with school dances.



UPPER—

McAnally, Hyde, Trams, Bunch, VanAntwerp, Clarke.

ENGLISH

Mr. A. Francis Trams, head of the English department of J. T. H. S. and J. J. C., received his degrees from the University of Illinois. He collects first editions of books and enjoys reading, hiking and traveling. He is also a writer of note, having published many selections, such as a book on Leigh Hunt, poems, essays, and short stories.

Miss Marian McAnally was graduated from the University of Illinois. As the sponsor of a dramatic club, she is interested in the theatre. Her other diversions include literature, travel and music.

Miss Lois Hyde, jovial sponsor of the Blazer, received her master's degree from the University of Wisconsin. She enjoys outdoor sports and is also interested in the theatre. Her rhetoric classes missed her very much during her long illness this year.

Miss Christine E. Bunch, J. C. adviser, obtained her master's degree from Columbia University. She is greatly interested in concerts and dramas. She also enjoys traveling, and made an extensive tour of Western United States and Canada last summer.

Miss Fidelia VanAntwerp was graduated from Bois College and has also attended the University of Chicago. She likes to write poetry and to collect good-looking pottery.

Miss Philena Clarke, rhetoric teacher, received her master's degree from Columbia University. She enjoys teaching the college literature class at night school. Cooking, attending the theatre, and studying poetry form her chief diversions.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Mr. C. O. Burden, of the commercial department, is a product of the University of Indiana and Northwestern University. He is a diligent bridge player, a keen follower of politics, and a great baseball fan.

Mr. R. R. Robinson, personnel director, was graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University. He is interested in reading, gardening, and wood working. Mr. Robinson helps place many J. T. H. S. and J. J. C. students in positions.

Miss Elizabeth Barns, English history teacher, received her degrees from Northwestern University and the University of Chicago. She is keenly interested in local history. Reading and going to the theatre and concerts form her chief diversions. She is also a seasoned traveler and enjoys her trips very much.

Mr. O. L. McReynolds did his undergraduate work at the University of Indiana. He received his master's degree from the University of Chicago. Literature, tennis, and baseball interest him. Economics is his subject for instruction.

Mr. T. M. Deam, assistant superintendent of J. T. H. S. and J. J. C., received his master's degree from Columbia University. He enjoys managing his Indiana farm and is justly proud of his new home in Joliet. He also writes about subjects relating to education and is the co-author of a social science book.

Mr. H. D. Leinenweber, faculty adviser of the Current Events Club, was graduated from Hanover College and the University of Chicago. His favorite pastimes include gardening, reading, and traveling. This year he planned and taught a new history class for students taking the teachers' course. He also teaches political science.

Mr. W. L. Myers, debate coach, obtained his master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania. This versatile man was formerly a baseball and basketball coach, and has written articles published in educational magazines.

Mr. G. A. Evans, economics teacher, received his master's degree from the University of Chicago. He likes to read, to travel, and to play tennis and volleyball.

FINE ARTS

Mrs. Esther Richardson, prominent artist and teacher of art, received her degree from the University of Chicago, and has done post graduate work at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. Her work has been exhibited at various places including the Hoosier Salons and the O'Brien Art Gallery. She enjoys gardening and painting at her country home, Stonehaven.

Miss Helen Mechtle, teacher of French, received her degrees from the University of California and the Middleburg College French School. She enjoys traveling, reading, swimming, and playing tennis.

Mr. Alex Zimmerman, director of that successful production, "Chimes of Normandy," received his master's degree from the University of Michigan. He is an accomplished organist and an enthusiastic student of music of all kinds. Altho a newcomer to the faculty this year, he has won the respect and unbounded admiration of all who know him because of his genial personality and the high quality of his productions.

Miss Beulah Agnew, instructor of German and faculty adviser for the high school German Club, was graduated from the University of Illinois and from Columbia University. She thoroughly enjoys traveling. The theatre and the concert stage also have a great attraction for her.

SCIENCE

Miss Florence Wolfe, zoology teacher, is a graduate of Northwestern University and is doing research work in anatomy. She does extensive flower gardening. Her other interests include traveling, reading, photography, and the stage.

Mr. C. E. Eggman, chemistry instructor, was graduated from the University of Indiana. He is interested in gardening and cabinet-making.

Mr. H . V. Givens, College-Y Club sponsor, was graduated from the University of Chicago. He is intrigued by photography and nature study, and also spends a great deal of time and effort in his garden. Botany and physiology are his subjects for instruction.

Mr. F. L. Fleener, geology teacher, received his master's degree from the University of Illinois. He is greatly interested in mineralogy and stamp collecting. He is also an enthusiastic gardener.

Mr. R. L. Price, astronomy and physics teacher, received his degrees from Hamilton University and the University of California. He is interested in photography, astronomy, reading, and fishing.

Mr. E. A. Larson, chemistry teacher, received his degrees from St. Olaf College and the University of Chicago. Music, literature, golf, and travel interest him.

Mr. R. L. Frisbie, student council adviser, received degrees from Knox College, Purdue University, and the University of Wisconsin. He is a chemist of renown and has done some medical research work.

Miss Lena Dickinson, who coaches the Junior College plays, is an admired instructor and adviser. She likes to read, to drive her automobile, and to collect quaint articles for her home.

ATHLETICS

Miss Beulah Green, well-liked athletic director, was graduated from the University of Illinois. She enjoys playing tennis, riding, golfing, and dancing. Traveling also appeals to her, and she made a trip to Quebec last summer.

Mrs. Verna Hoyt, physical education instructor and accompanist, was graduated from Joliet Junior College. She enjoys active sports. To her, the outstanding event of the past year was her Christmas trip to New Orleans.

Mrs. Phoebe Kirby, W. A. A. and Orchesis sponsor, attended the Chautauqua School of Physical Education in New York and also Northwestern University. She enjoys horseback riding, dancing, and camping.

Mr. A. A. Wills, well-known J. J. C. basketball and baseball coach, is a graduate of DePauw University. He is manager of golf and tennis teams of J. J. C. and sometimes referees football and basketball games at Northwestern University.

MATHEMATICS, SHOP, COMMERCIAL

Mr. F. W. Grosstuck received his degree from Stout Institute and has done graduate work at Chicago University, the University of Illinois, and the University of Wisconsin. Pattern-making is his specialty in regard to junior collegians. He enjoys reading and cruising along the Maine coast.

Mr. E. S. McLain was a public accountant for two years after being graduated from the University of Wisconsin. He instructs in the commercial department and is also treasurer of the J. C. Loan Fund Association. His hobby is golf.

Mr. R. L. Marshall, machine shop instructor, received his bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan. He has written articles concerning education and shop practice which have been published. As diversions he fishes, camps, and travels.

Mr. E. L. Mayo, College Club Sponsor, received his master's degree from the University of Illinois. He enjoys traveling, and visited the Cleveland Exposition and an exposition of English possessions at Toronto, Canada, last fall. Playing golf is his chief outdoor hobby.

Mr. E. C. Douglas, engineering instructor, was graduated from the Michigan State College and the Kent College of Law. His summers are spent on his farm in northern Wisconsin where he specializes in raising pure-bred cattle.

Mr. H. J. Atkinson, instructor of mathematics and director of extra-curricular and commencement activities, has done graduate work at Wisconsin, Harvard, and Columbia Universities. Swimming, reading, and hiking are his diversions.

"THE EYES OF TLALOC"

"The Eyes of Tlaloc," a three-act mystery comedy by Agnes Emelie Peterson, was the play chosen and enacted by the college students this year. The action took place in John Wayne's ranch house in Southern California, where a large and vivid mural painting of the Aztec god, Tlaloc, hung. The malicious eyes of the hideous creature gleamed through the shadows. Outside, an equinoctial storm raged with wind, rain, and lightning. Amanda and Ezra, furtive old caretakers of the place, admitted one after another of the strange group of people who enacted the drama within the walls of the mysterious house. It offered fascinating characterizations, an engrossing plot, good comedy, and mystery of an unusual nature.

Miss Lena Dickinson's fine directing and capable leadership was again evident in this splendid production, and the students played their parts like veterans. They were chosen from the college student body after a series of try-outs, and were given two hours credit for their participation in dramatic work.

During their long and trying rehearsals and their final performance, they formed many friendships which will be treasured memories in years to come. It is an added pleasure for them to know that they are adding to the Junior College loan fund which will enable needy students to continue their education.

Those in the cast were: Lois Bitterman, Pershing Burgard, Clarence Rimke, Norman Bitterman, Robert Owens, James Egan, Dorothy Chalstrom, Ernest Lundin, Henry Luccock, Frances Heusner, and Dorothy Johnston.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

The French Club was faced with the problem of reorganization last fall. Desperately they tried to get information from other foreign language club members. A ray of hope presented itself in the Northern Illinois Junior College Conference held at Morton, to which one delegate was sent to glean all the information possible. Both meetings in the fall were postponed. By that time things were beginning to look very dark.

However, during the winter months, opportunity to start over again presented itself. A request was made for a play on Language Night for the College Club. Pershing Burgard and Henry Luccock were enlisted for the writing of a one-act comedy. Lois Bitterman and Ernest Lundin sang a classical song. Melvin Witkin, Mary Cattaneo, Bill Hansen, Ed Rosentreter, Marjorie Knight, Catherine Haller, and Henry Luccock supplied the comedy and laughs, Wendell Osborne and Helen Hamilton gave the love-interest, and John Christopher, Ray Anderson, and Harold Levinson helped to make the play a finished product.

At the spring meeting Madame Metziger, a native French woman now living in Joliet, was presented. Having been educated in French schools, she was able to give us a clear picture of French education. She also answered many questions concerning French people and their customs. Music was furnished by two high school boys, Morey Markel and James Aseltine.

In spite of all obstacles this year's French Club has been a success under the presidency of William Hansen, with Marilyn Rhodes, vice-president, and Mary Lois Whiteman, secretary-treasurer.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

The Current Events Club has been one of the most active organizations in J. J. C. during the past year. Students who were anxious to be well informed on present conditions regularly attended the weekly meetings of the club.

Helen Kelly as president; Jack Hancock, vice-president; Clara Mores, secretary; and Mr. H. D. Leinenweber, faculty sponsor, handled the business matters of the club.

This year the group was fortunate in having outside speakers at certain times. Mr. Ralph Cissne spoke on music; Mr. C. K. Turman, "Insurance in Our Modern Economic System"; Mr. W. W. Haggard, "The Most Interesting Project in Education."

Many teachers contributed excellent talks on timely subjects and received many favorable comments from those attending the meetings. Mr. R. L. Marshall, Mr. E. C. Douglas, Miss Dew Dailey, Mr. L. M. Onsgard, Miss Elizabeth Barns, and Mr. F. L. Fleener were among those who spoke.

Several forum discussions were held by the group under the leadership of Mr. Leinenweber. A discussion of the new traffic ordinance for the city was especially well attended.

A student debate between Orrin Long and Ray Watson on the question: "Resolved, that all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated," also provided an interesting meeting.

A bushel of cheers for this staff! Cheers to them first of all, because they have given us in their paper the news while it is still news, and because they have taken pains to write up this news so that we find it interesting and enjoy reading it. More cheers to them, because they have given us useful information in their feature articles and feature columns. Cheers this time for their clever jokes which have provided many good laughs, and for their timely, educational editorials which have appealed to our more serious nature and enabled us to get insight into world affairs.

Apart from the work which this staff did so that we might get our Blazers every two weeks, they sponsored a college mixer which was held last fall. Like their Blazer this mixer was a great success. It was, in fact, the most successful mixer given by any organization this last year. It was planned by a committee chosen from the staff and aided by the remainder of the staff.

This Blazer Mixer was held in the high school cafeteria and all college students were privileged to attend. A banquet started the mixer and later in the evening there was dancing to a local orchestra.

A Junior College Chamber of Commerce was formed with the aid of Miss Fidelia Van Antwerp, instructor, and Mr. C. J. Kellem of the Joliet Chamber of Commerce by the college business letter writing class, which did something constructive and different in the way of organizations this year.

Chief among the activities of this group were its trip through the American Institute of Laundry, and its exhibit in the show windows in the commercial department hall. The class listed the industries, transportation facilities, and educational institutions in Joliet, which members of the class visited and asked for samples or literature for the exhibit.

The industries cooperated very well, and the exhibits included everything from three-color advertising by Brewster's, to tiny sample loaves of Rainbo bread.

The display comprised three sections: transportation, education, and industry. Among the interesting industrial exhibits were: a wall paper sample book representing the various wall paper mills; a display from the American Can company, including cans ranging from catsup and spice containers to salt packages with tin spouts, and a number of can covers with special openings; packaged coal and large lumps of coal; a steel works exhibit; and parts from Moore Brothers gas stoves.

The transportation group included several interesting maps showing Joliet's train service, bus lines, and highways; and illustrated literature from several of the railroads.

The educational exhibit displayed literature and pictures from the various schools, and a copy of last summer's Centennial Edition of the Joliet Herald-News.

Robert Hann was elected chairman and Alice Nethery, Ray Watson, and Albert Shutten comprised the publicity committee.

The J. C. staff was chosen early in the school year to build up the book feature by feature. Each department was assigned various tasks from time to time on which they worked until completion. As each department reached the crisis in its affairs it was given help by members of other departments not so severely pressed at that time.

If it had not been for this fine cooperation shown by various members of the staff, the annual could not have been so successfully completed.

Besides the many pressing duties concerned in the publication of the yearbook, the staff undertook some other projects in connection with their work. The first of these was an assembly at which a skit, written by Dorothy Johnston and Claire Gnadinger, was enacted. The cast of characters was made up of staff members and the aim was to promote sales for the book. For this purpose, pledge cards were distributed to the collegians at the close of the program.

Another undertaking was carried out on April 6. This time they drew on outside talent, their object being to secure funds to help finance the production. Mr. Staples, a magician, and his company of pet monkeys, guinea pigs, and rabbits were the guest performers for a large audience, which netted the staff a profit of $62.

Throughout the year, there was also conducted a sales campaign which resulted in approximately 200 paid subscriptions out of a possible 300.

THE MEN'S RIFLE CLUB

The first men's rifle club in the history of this institution was formed last year, April, 1936, by a group of twenty-odd fellows.

Mr. H. D. Grose, teacher, an expert rifleman who helped organize the famous Joliet Rifle Club, was chosen sponsor. James B. Egan was instrumental in bringing the club into existence.

The organization decided that it could dispense with having officers and none were elected. Each member purchases his own ammunition, and the guns and use of the range are furnished by the school.

Most of the members had to learn target shooting "from the ground up" as it differs greatly from field shooting. Under Mr. Grose's expert tutelage this was accomplished, and some of the members became quite expert in punching holes in the ten ring.

With the commencing of school in September, the club immediately resumed activities. Mr. Grose did not feel equal to the job of sponsoring the group, so Mr. L. B. Aseltine, another expert rifleman, became the new sponsor.

The club has met every Thursday evening on the school range, and although no matches have been arranged at the time of this writing, it is expected that there will be a few before the semester is finished.

At a recent meeting, the scores ran as follows: Freckleton, 181; Mr. Aseltine, 171; Egan, 160; Lundquist, 160; Arthurs 158; Sandstrom, 153; Mason, 150; and Steinquist, 168. All through the year Freckleton, Steinquist, and Mr. Aseltine have been consistent high scorers. Earlier in the season, when Sid Peterson was still attending school, he too, was a persistently high scorer. At one time he secured the use of the National Guard range for the club, but due to the trouble of transporting the guns, mats, etc., over there and back to the school, the organization decided to resume shooting on the school range.

Other members not in the picture include Arthurs, Mason, Sandretto, Lundquist, and Cron.

NOON-DAY BASKETBALL

The noon-day basketball league was composed of four teams captained by Fred Patterson, Gordon Argyle, Bob Corcoran, and Ray McGrath. Each team played seven games, most of which were bitterly fought and won or lost by a close score. The standings at the end of the schedule were:

Team	Won	Lost
Patterson	7	0
Argyle	4	3
Corcoran	4	3
McGrath	0	7

An all-star team was selected at the end of the schedule. Players chosen on this team were Patterson, Corcoran, Knowles, forwards; McAllister, center; McGrath, Argyle, Schutten, guards.

Players participating on the teams were:

Patterson's: Patterson, Schutten, Francis, Witkin, Johnston, Oesterle, Shaw, Watson, Wellman.

McGrath's: McGrath, Knowles, Aschambeault, Rhinehardt, Simmers.

Argyle's: Argyle, Allcut, Hill, Turk, Rimke, Sosnoski, Owens.

Corcoran: Corcoran, Anderson, Sahler, Levinson, Mastin, Whitgrove, Kaufman.

W. A. A. OFFICERS

One of the most active organizations of J. J. C. is the W. A. A., and these five women are its mainstay. These, with the cooperation of the members, are responsible for the introduction of badminton and the sport nights which both girls and boys, young and old, enjoyed so much. Do Chalstrom is president, and it was her splendid leadership that gave the club so much pep and enthusiasm. Amiable Mary Ellen Seamans is the club's vice-president and chief adviser. If you want something original and different, ask Mary Ellen, for she is always willing. For that added touch of femininity or just that bit of color, petite Phyllis Anderson is always called on, as she is the club secretary and artist. The girl who goes out for every sport and excels in all of them is Virginia Lindblad, who is the head of sports. Mrs. Kirby needs no introduction, for she is well known in J. J. C. and is held dearly in the hearts of all collegians.

These officers served as the central committee for most of the important events of the W. A. A. year. Important projects, besides regular sports activities, were the fall Harvest Moon dance, specialty numbers in the inter-class meet, first co-educational "sports night," Canine Sports Day, and the annual Mother and Daughter Banquet.

For harder workers, better planners and organizers you will have to go far. To these five we do homage, for they made the year '36 and '37 a grand success for the W. A. A.

WOMEN'S RIFLE CLUB

The rifle club was one of the hobby groups for Junior College girls. It was organized three years ago and has proved to be very popular. The girls shot every Tuesday afternoon under the supervision of the R. O. T. C. Genevieve Wilson, captain, with Eileen Rodgers as assistant captain, was the guiding spirit.

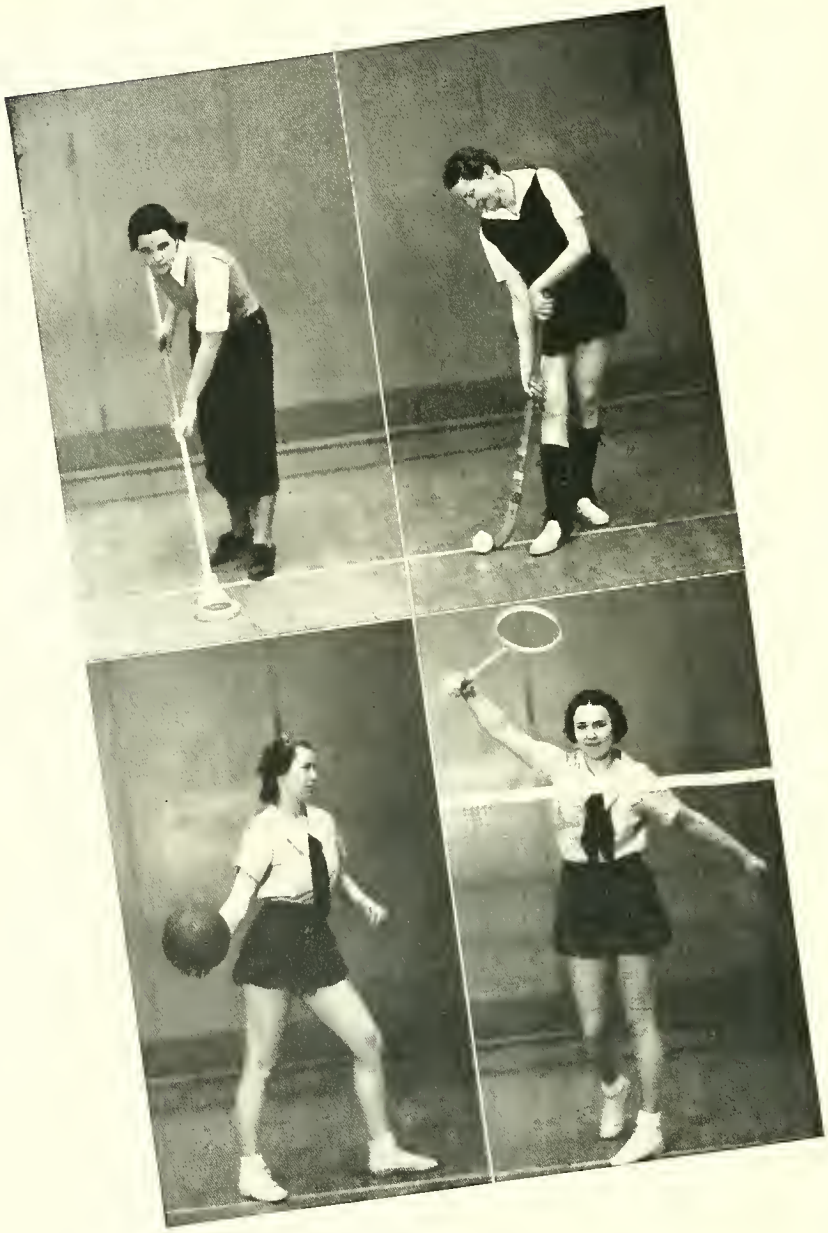
A would-be sharpshooter is first instructed in how to handle a rifle in a prone position. When she can consistently shoot 40 in that pose, she may fire while sitting, kneeling, and then standing.

The purpose of the club was to develop perseverance, patience, and good sportsmanship as well as good marksmanship. The club also provided an excellent opportunity for the girls to get better acquainted with one another outside of the classrooms.

The members of the group dressed in dark blue overalls and white shirts when on the range. Each member bought her own ammunition.

The highest scores for this year in prone position were made by Dorothy Chalstrom, who shot 48; Betty Lindsley, who scored 46; and Catherine Haller, who made 45. Alice Nethery shot 42 in sitting position.

The girls of this congenial group were: Marie Berg, Dorothy Chalstrom, Lucille Fox, Imogene Fraser, Elsie Halderson, Catherine Haller, Lorraine Hedburg, Marjorie Knight, Betty Lindsley, Virginia Lindsley, Eileen Miller, Alice Nethery, Georgia Perry, Marilyn Rhodes, Eileen Rodgers, Ruth Smith, Pearl Sutton, Helen Tokar, and Genevieve Wilson.



LINDSLEY, KELLY.
COX, LINDBLAD.

SHUFFLEBOARD

BETTY LINDSLEY'S favorite sport is horseback riding, but she also devotes a large part of her time to shuffleboard, the sport of which she is head. Other sports in which she participates are rifle, hockey, and baseball.

HOCKEY

MARY KELLY is an all around sportswoman. She earned her freshman and sophomore letters through participation in every sport from hockey, of which she is head, to swimming and Orchesis.

BASKETBALL

Every college has its personality girl, and J. J. C. is not to be out done, for MARGE COX is "it". Not only was she captain of the varsity basketball team, but she was one of the outstanding freshmen in J. J. C.'s world of sports.

BADMINTON

Although badminton was a new sport in J. J. C., VIRGINIA LINDBLAD played it like a trouper. We sort of expect that of "Ginny", for she takes the cup as an all-around athlete.

W. A. A. AUTUMN SPORTS

SHUFFLEBOARD

Shuffleboard was a game especially adapted to tournament play, and the W. A. A. girls took advantage of this. A ladder tournament, with the girls playing in couples, was held in the fall. In the second semester a doubles elimination tournament was played. Eighteen girls took part in this sport. Play was on three courts in the girls' small gym, after school and during free periods.

BASKETBALL

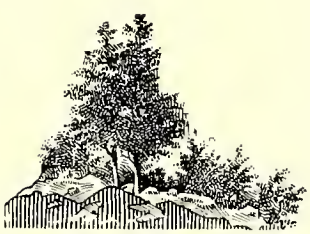
"Center throw-in" is one of the features of girls' rules which was introduced this year in Jaycee basketball for girls. It eliminated the center jump, and resulted in the more even matching of the Wolverettes and Wolverines, captained by Virginia Lindblad and Georgia Perry, respectively. The varsity, composed of ten girls chosen from the two teams, won the championship for J. J. C. and J. T. H. S.

HOCKEY

Bully, dribble, pass; and down the field they go for one of the most exciting outdoor games. Hockey, the first fall sport, had a very thrilling and successful season. The weather was perfect and the J. J. C. co-eds held their own with the high school teams, ending the season with a tie between the Seniors and J. J. C. for the championship.

BADMINTON

Badminton was a very popular sport offered by the W. A. A. this year for the first time. The boys as well as the girls were fascinated by the baffling way the "bird," or shuttlecock, floated and dipped. A mixed doubles tournament was played with fourteen couples taking part. It was a round-robin tournament with each couple playing six games.



LAX MOMENTS

SEPTEMBER

Cherished Martha:

A fortnight ago you informed me in shockingly outspoken language that my heart is undergoing a process of ossification. Flighty, shallow-minded girl, to demonstrate the injustice of your charges I have composed a diary —for surely one never knew an unromantic diary-keeper. In order to make this record of consequential events immediately available, I have undertaken some exhaustive research, covering events of the past year. I enclose the project herewith.

Devotedly,
Percival Eustace.

THE DIARY OF PERCIVAL EUSTACE BRAINTANTRUM

Dear Diary:

A tattered piece of newspaper, dated September 14, supporting one leg of my lop-sided desk, carries the headline, "Hi Schoo and Junior Colle Beg Today."

Jane Brennan's Diary affirms that on September 22 Patrick McFarland was elected President of College Club.

Before I was ejected from the Blazer office for being "an infernal pest," I noticed a headline in the first issue of the Blazer dated September 25: "College Supper Mixer Tonight."

OCTOBER

Another item in the second issue stated that on October 2 Henry Luccock was elected president of the sophomore class and George Wellman, on October 6, president of the freshman class.

With an abusive warning that it would be inexpedient for me ever again to mention the third of October, an uncouth freshman dislodged two of my canines and sent them on a tempestuous intestinal journey. I conclude that this was the day the sophomores made thirty home-runs to the freshmen's twelve in their annual football game.

Miss Mather sympathetically directed me to her desk calendar, which I found very interesting. In fact, I became so engrossed that I was oblivious to her presence until I found my head jammed between the legs of ex-president Lincoln. "That is not my calendar," she puffed, kicking me violently. "That is my diary." (Anyway, the Blazer Pigskin Mixer was on September 23.)

How could I forget that Fred Patterson's team made the most touchdowns in the Noon-day League Basketball Tournament, which terminated October 29?

Not students, but teachers, infested the building on October 30, and I must say that their conduct was reprehensible. I spent the day in a quiet study hall, resolved not to be a party to the folly of teachers' institutes.

NOVEMBER

Looking about me cautiously, I seated myself at her desk, and turned to November 6 in her interesting calendar. I saw a comment about another teachers' institute and the W. A. A. Harvest Moon Strut, and then saw that my head was jammed between the legs of ex-president Lincoln and heard Miss Mather telling me that that is not her calendar, it is her diary. I fear that the desk at which I had seated myself was the same desk at which Miss Mather had seated herself some time ago and from which she had not since removed herself.

"I am sorry," said Miss Dickinson, "but I have forgotten the date of my charming production of November 20, 'The Eyes of Tlaloc,' and stop this animated conversation and get out of the hall."

"The Fall Formal," said Miss Mather as she jammed my head between the legs of ex-president Lincoln, "was November 26, and it was on the same night that Wills' lads licked the tar outta' Springfield in their first game of the season, and that's not my calendar, that's my diary."

THE WINTER

NORMAN BITTERMAN

The dedications are usually made to faculty members, but this year there is also a student whose work has commanded the recognition and appreciation of the students. Norman Bitterman, the representative of the sophomore class in the student council, is president of the council. His program has been one of reform and innovation. He has been the promoter of a movement to rewrite the constitution, which the school has outgrown and experience has proved inefficient. The president himself has suggested many of the provisions which the new constitution advocates.

Norman has been instrumental in the advancement of the particularly full and successful social year which the college has had. He planned for more dances than ever before, popular orchestras, and appointed hard-working, skillful committees, with the aid of the council, of course. The sports parties, originated by the W. A. A., were supported and made permanent by the council after their enthusiastic reception by the students.

In short, the college's activities have undergone a revolutionary change, due to the council's vigorous and unrelenting work. Its last move was to establish a permanent publicity board to advertise the college events in order to arouse the attention and enthusiasm of the student body.

Certainly, Norman, as the president of this council, receives the heart-felt thanks of the students.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

This year's freshman class, under the very capable leadership of George Wellman, president; Harris Robinson, vice-president; Robert Owens, secretary and treasurer; Clarence Rimke and Ernest Lundin, student council members, has had a social calendar dotted with unusual activities. Mr. Ira D. Yaggy, dean of the college, has been a help and an inspiration to this student group upon every occasion.

The freshman hop, held March 9, in the high school gymnasium, and the annual college banquet, held June 2, were two outstanding activities directed by this group.

Although this class, as at any college, was supposed to be the underdog, or the humble group, it has been far from that. Aggressive and alert the members have been found cooperating on every occasion with the sophomores for the glory of the college. There has been a goodly number of freshman students on the basketball, baseball, tennis, golf, and debate teams. They have done their share towards making the Women's Athletic Association parties and sports events a success. In their participation in these social events they have not neglected their scholastic work, for their record along this line has been a brilliant one.

If their interest in social affairs and their standard as students do not diminish, they bid fair to become an outstanding sophomore class. It is hoped that their college work will not end here.

COLLEGE CLUB

At the annual election of the College Club officers, Patrick McFarland became president; Gordon Argyle, vice-president; and Jane Brennan, secretary.

The opening meeting was held October 15. At this time, Dean Yaggy introduced the officers and Mr. Mayo, faculty sponsor. A diversified program of school talent was then presented.

On the evening of November 23, Ben Ames, noted war correspondent, gave an illustrated lecture on the Ethiopian War, which he had covered.

On December 14, Mrs. R. D. Renkenberger lectured on "Christmas Greens." She displayed her own handiwork in mounting the various greens.

Jay Berwanger, former All-American half-back and captain of the University of Chicago football team, was the speaker at the January meeting. He told of his experiences in football and in Hollywood while making pictures.

February 15 was Language Night. The English play, "The Ring and the Look," was directed by Miss Dickinson. The French Club presented a one-act comedy, and the German Club entertained with a group of German songs.

At the March meeting, J. W. Zellner, impersonator, entertained College Club with his clever portrayal of many historical characters.

An amateur talent night was presented at the April meeting. Among those on the program were the Philomels, a choral group under the direction of Mrs. H. Converse; Audrey Totter, who entertained with several readings, and several students rendering musical selections.

The last meeting of the College Club was held May 2. It consisted of school talent, and readings by Virginia Williams.

As a climax of the year's activities, a picnic was sponsored the latter part of May at Phillips Park.

LANGUAGE NIGHT

From the students' viewpoint, one of the most enjoyable programs of College Club was Language Night, which was presented by the students themselves. Three clubs, the English, French, and German, participated.

The English Club put on an amusing skit entitled "The Ring and the Look" concerning high school adolescents in their prime. Robert Owens was Tommy Tuttle, the deeply-involved hero. He had given a precious ring, won at a carnival, to Claire Burnham (Jerry Wright), his girl of the preceding week. Claire, a charming little spit-fire, kept the good-natured colored maid Beulah, a role for which Elda Fern Schwartz won renown, constantly jumping to answer the phone. Tommy, the man with many women in his life, had promised the ring to a persuasive miss named Doris Moore (Frances Heusner). Both young ladies claimed the ring and appeared at the Tuttle homestead, putting the hero in a fever of anxiety lest his new flame, Evelyn Granger, (Dorothy Johnston) should happen in. His forebodings materialized, and Evelyn entered under the pretext of borrowing a book from Marion, Tommy's amused sister (Dorothy Chalstrom). Mary Ellen Seamans portrayed a popular type of mother who knew when to leave the room. Tommy's friend, Billy Martin (Pershing Burgard), hurried away when the onrush of the weaker sex began. However, Tommy (preferring Tom), the diplomat, straightened it out by presenting to Evelyn his good ring of gold with an honest-to-goodness, genuine stone.

Following this, the French Club presented an untitled play, written by two of the French students, Henry Luccock and Pershing Burgard. The plot was laid around two American singers posing as French opera stars, Madame and Monsieur DuBois, who came to Paris from an American tour to sing for the French celebration on July 14, their fourth of July. The eccentric hotel manager, M. Bovee, (Henry Luccock), and the two maids, Marge (Marge Knight) and Louise (Catherine Haller), were in a flutter of excitement over the arrival of the stars and bustling around, while radio announcer John Kristopher and mechanic Harold Levinson were preparing the broadcasting equipment. Baggageman Ray Anderson brought the trunk, and when all had left the room, out from the trunk came stowaways, Wendell Osborn, Bill Hansen, and Ed Rosentretter. Into the room at this moment waltzed the beautiful Simone, daughter of Madame and M. DuBois and the idol of Wendell's heart, since he had met her on the boat. A touching reunion was being effected when in burst the disguised imposters, Lois Bitterman and Ernest Lundin. Two peasant girls, Betty Paul and Ann Sari, came in to dance for the celebrities, whose arrival had been announced. Lois and Ernest sang and were very enthusiastically received. In the midst of the applause in sailed Madame and M. DuBois, French to the fingertips and loquaciously indignant. Wendell suggested that they sing to prove their identity, but only a few screeching notes were needed to cause them to be evicted, despite their vigorous protestations. A contract was given Lois and Ernest; and Ernest, pleased with the results which Wendell's suggestion had produced, made him his business manager. Strengthened by this promise of financial resources, Wendell proposed to and was accepted by Simone, bringing the play to a happy ending.

For variation, the German Club brought the evening to a successful close by their rendering of lively folk songs.

THE COLLEGE-Y CLUB

The College-Y Club closely resembles a fraternity in its organization. Its fine comradeship is appropriately restricted to boys and membership is invitational.

This well-knit group of approximately twenty has met at the Y. M. C. A. club rooms for dinner meetings on the first and third Wednesday evenings of each month for the last school year.

George Sahler ably guided the club throughout the year as president. Fred Patterson served as vice-president, while Ray Watson was secretary the first semester and treasurer the second. The treasurer for the first semester was Earl Biddle, and the secretary the second semester was John Duffy.

These officers in governing the year's activities followed the club's purpose: "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Among the well-known speakers this year were: Miss Elizabeth Barns, Miss Dew Dailey, Mr. E. Wells, Judge G. N. Blatt, and the Rev. P. G. Van Zandt. Each speaker left a valuable message with the club.

With Henry Luccock as leader, the whole club cooperated in making the second annual New Year's Eve All-School Dance a big success. This affair was well received as a source of wholesome entertainment for the young people of the community. The turnout of almost three hundred couples enabled the club to turn over a substantial profit to the Free Milk Fund.

Another successful event was the date banquet and dance. Earl Biddle was chairman of this affair, and James J. Hart was the entertainer of the evening.

The College-Y Club provides a fine opportunity for broadening one's self mentally, morally, and physically. Returning members look forward to a well-rounded out program next year.

*Conference Games

Conference champions again for the seventh consecutive year! The students of J. J. C. congratulate Coach A. A. Wills and the team of the 1936-37 season.

The team playing one of the toughest schedules that have ever been played by a J. J. C. team, finished with twelve victories against six defeats. In the conference race, Joliet had a fairly easy time winning seven of its games and losing one. Winning their first six conference games from LaSalle-Peru, Morton, Harvey, LaSalle-Peru, LaGrange, and Morton, in order, they were then beaten by LaGrange there, but the team came back to win their final game from Harvey to clinch the title.

BASKETBALL SEASON

In the non-conference schedule, Joliet won five games and lost the same number. Springfield was the first foe of the season, but the down-staters were sent home the losing team. The next two non-conference foes were DeKalb Normal and St. Viator, always contenders for conference championship in the Little Nineteen Conference. Joliet finished on the short-end of the two hard fought games, but then won the next four non-conference games from Centenary, Burlington, Concordia, and St. Joe. They were defeated in their next game by Concordia of Milwaukee there. Joliet ended the regular season with two defeats, one from the Hawaiian All-Stars, and the other by St. Joe, Ind.

Two feature games were played this season, one against Centenary College of Louisiana, and the other against the Hawaiian All-Stars. Centenary is a member of the strong Southern Conference, of which they were the champions in the 1934-35 season. The "Gentlemen" from the South were set back with a 28 to 27 loss, after they were heavy favorites to win easily. This game, which started out with a slow-break, neither team being able to get the edge, turned out to be a thriller in the last few seconds of play. Trailing, with only about five seconds left to play, Bob Corcoran, Joliet forward, took the ball on an out-of-bounds play, dribbled the length of the floor, and looped in a set-up to win the game.

The other feature game was played against the Hawaiian All-Stars, but Joliet was not so successful, losing in the last five minutes by a score of 52 to 39. The All-Stars were small, ranging from five feet, three inches to five feet, ten, having one tall man, a six-foot four-inch center. They were fast, quick, deadly shots, and never tired. The All-Stars were made up of graduate players of high schools and universities of the islands. Playing before a packed gymnasium, the All-Stars started a whirlwind scoring spree, running up an 8 to 0 score before the home team got located. Joliet trailed at the half, but went on a scoring spree in the second half to run the score up to 35 to 36, Joliet trailing, but it was stopped there when the Hawaiians went on a scoring spree of their own. When the gun sounded, ending the game, Joliet was on the short end of a 52 to 39 score.

In eighteen games, Joliet scored 715 points to their opponents' 615, or an average of 39.72 points per game, to their opponents' 34.16 points per game. McGrath, Joliet's All-State guard, led the Joliet team in scoring. The regular team consisted of Corcoran and Patterson, forwards; McAllister, center; McGrath and Argyle, guards. In the second semester, Knowles was in the line-up in a forward position. Schutten, reserve guard; Sahler, reserve center; and Layfield, reserve forward, saw action.

Coach Wills, we the student body, pay tribute to you and your team upon winning your seventh consecutive conference title. May you keep on winning indefinitely.

STATE TOURNAMENT

QUARTER FINALS
Joliet 44—Herzl 42.
LaGrange 55—Morton 46.

SEMI-FINALS
Joliet 42—North Park 37.
LaGrange 49—Lisle 38.

STATE TOURNAMENT FINALS
LaGrange 58—Joliet 45.

The Joliet Junior College State Tournament was held at LaGrange, the home of the defending state champs. Joliet was proud to be one of the eleven junior college teams challenging LaGrange for the state title.

Coach Wills' "Wolves", winner of their seventh consecutive Northern Illinois Junior College Conference Championship, entered the tournament as one of the favorites along with LaGrange, North Park, and Wilson. Playing their first game against Herzl Junior College of Chicago, the Willsmen emerged victorious in a thrilling game 44 to 42. The Joliet team's offensive power was paced by Ray McGrath who scored 22 points.

The next opponent of the team was the strong North Park five, who were stamped as real title-contenders after their one-sided victory over the strong Wilson Junior College with a score of 48 to 24. The game was closely fought, finally ending in a 42 to 37 victory for the Wolves. The lead changed hands many times during the course of the game, and at half time the Wolf pack was on the short end of a 20 to 16 score. Through a spirited second half drive, the Joliet team emerged victorious, scoring 42 points to North Park's 37. No individual player's work stood out, but rather all of the Joliet team were stars on both offense and defense. In the other semi-final game LaGrange easily won over Lisle, 49 to 38.

In the final game of the tournament, Joliet bowed to the strong LaGrange team, 58 to 45, in a rough and hard-fought game. The Willsmen were seriously handicapped in the second half, as Ken McAllister and Captain Argyle were put out of the game on fouls. The team struggled hard to overcome a first half LaGrange lead but could not—the result being LaGrange won their second consecutive state title.

Joliet's offensive work was shared evenly by Captain Argyle, Knowles, Patterson, and McGrath. LaGrange was paced by its great scoring ace, Klindera, high scorer of the tournament.

Joliet placed three men on the all-state squad. Ray McGrath was placed on the first All-State team as guard. McAllister and Argyle received second rating as forward and guard, respectively. Other members of the first All-State team were: Klindera, LaGrange forward; Manno, Morton forward; Kellman, North Park center; Halavesk, LaGrange guard.

The Joliet tournament squad was composed of Bill Knowles, Fred Patterson, Bob Layfield, and Oavi Maki, forwards; Ken McAllister and George Sahler, centers; Captain Gordy Argyle, Ray McGrath, Al Shutten, and Don Anderson, guards. The tournament received wholehearted support from the Joliet student body as their turn-outs to the games was remarkable.

Joliet, we are proud of your fighting spirit. You never stopped trying, you were great even in defeat, but championship congratulations must go to a great LaGrange team.

VARSITY TEAM

WILLIAM—"Wild Bill"—KNOWLES, freshman forward, developed into a fine forward whose aggressiveness and speed made him a good offensive threat. He will be counted on for action next year.

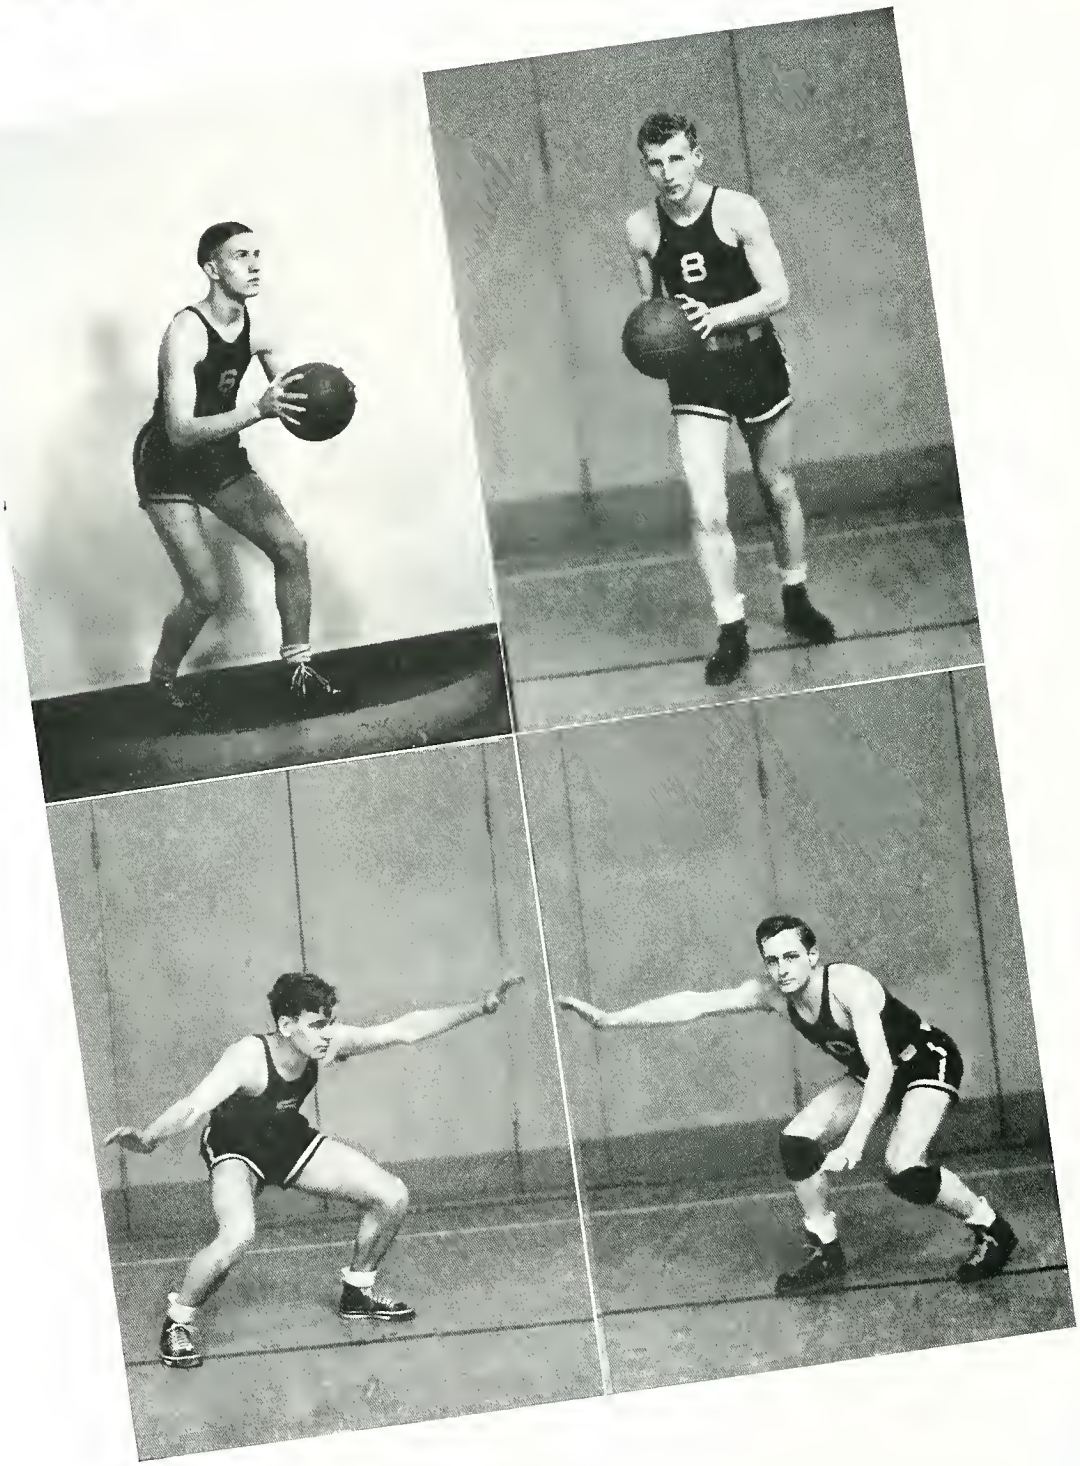
FRED—"Pat"—PATTERSON, sophomore forward, has completed his basketball career for J. J. C. He was valuable for his ability to score with a deadly long shot and his defensive play under the basket in rebounding and guarding.

KENNETH—"Mac"—McALLISTER, sophomore center, was outstanding for his defensive play in both rebounding and guarding. "Mac" was a great team player and his spirit made him great. Mr. Wills will find his place hard to fill.

GORDON — "Gordie" — ARGYLE, sophomore guard and captain of the Willsmen, was a scrappy and fighting player whose spirit and drive will be missed next year. He was picked on the second All-State team.

RAY—"Claddie"—McGRATH, freshman guard, was the leading scorer of the Wolves pack. Ray was one of the finest offensive guards in the conference. He was picked on the All-State team. Ray will be back for action next year.

THE WINTER



Upper: Sahler, Layfield.

ACTIVE SUBSTITUTES

GEORGE — "Doughnuts" — SAHLER, sophomore reserve center of the Wolves pack, was a cool and steady player who could be counted on for scoring. He played his best game of the year at LaGrange in the tournament finals.

ROBERT — "Bones" — LAYFIELD, freshman reserve forward, came to Coach Wills at mid-semester and saw action in all of the second semester games. Bob possessed a fine left-handed hook shot and could always be counted upon to score. He will be back for action next year.

OIVA MAKI, freshman reserve guard, also joined the Wolves at the mid-semester and saw considerable action in the second semester games. He had a good eye for the basket and tried hard. He will be in next year's line-up.

ALBERT — "Stubby" — SCHUTTEN, sophomore reserve guard, was one of the best defensive guards of the team. His cool and deliberate playing will be missed next year.

ORCHESIS

Petite NATALIE CLYNE implies the J. J. C. terpsichorean. Orchesis is not her only aptitude, for she finds immense enjoyment in riding, tennis, and a good game of golf.

TAP DANCING

CLARA MORES is J. J. C.'s own Ginger Rogers, for Clara not only has blonde hair but is quite at home in tap shoes. She is also active in Orchesis, badminton, baseball, and tennis.

PING PONG

ALICE NETHERY, head of ping pong, participates in a number of W. A. A. activities. She prefers active, outdoor sports. She was a member of the varsity basketball team in both her freshman and sophomore years.

RIFLE

Like the Canadian mounted police GENEVIEVE WILSON always gets her man, for she is the sharp shooter of J. J. C. She was assistant captain of the girls' rifle club and this year was elected captain which is proof of her ability.

W. A. A. WINTER SPORTS

ORCHESIS

Pas de chat, assemble, sissone coupe may be Greek to you but to the girls in Orchesis it meant something very different. About fifteen girls came out this year for Orchesis, which is an honorary dancing club. More girls should come out for it as it is a training that develops grace, poise, and self-expression through rhythmical movement.

TAP

Hop, step, flopa, step, to the tune of "One, two, button your shoe," or some other popular tune, was a common occurrence in the girls' small gym as the tap girls practiced for college club or some other program.

PING PONG

"Smash it!" The boys did, so the girls learned to do it in self-defense. The girls' ping pong group included twenty-seven players, and a large number of boys also utilized the school's ping pong facilities. The main event of the season was a girls' singles elimination tournament with both winners' and losers' brackets. A large number of mixed games, both singles and doubles, was played.

RIFLE

"Crack" goes a rifle five times and then you look at your target. If you're just beginning, probably you missed completely; if you're a sharp-shooter, maybe they're all on the black. Either way the girls in the Rifle Club developed accuracy and steady nerves, as well as earning another point toward their W. A. A. letters. The club fired, this year, during free periods on Tuesday afternoons instead of after school.

Upper: Frosh-Soph Hop.
Lower: April Showers Dance.

DANCES

To the Junior Collegians, one of the biggest events of the year is the Fall Formal. The night of November 25 was the dawn of an era, since the student body waived refreshments and favors for Emil Flindt's popular orchestra. The committee, under Patrick McFarland, bedecked the gymnasium with purple and white streamers, the college colors. Mr. Leinenweber was the faculty sponsor.

Always an hilarious event, the Costume Dance, January 21, was particularly successful this year. Mel Marvin's orchestra was engaged for the evening; Miss Clarke did honors as sponsor; and George Cowing was committee chairman. A box of candy was presented Miriam Sellards and Henry Luccock for the most original costumes. They were actually covered from head to foot with examination papers, topping it off with lamp-shade hats adorned with them. Ruth Smith and Harry Cody reverted to childhood days with hair-bow and mibs, winning the vegetable bouquet for the funniest costumes.

March 5, amid the general atmosphere of intense concentration and study, the Freshman Hop (as pictured) was presented with Mel Marvin's orchestra; faculty sponsor, Mr. Burden; and committee chairman, George Wellman. Spring was the central theme of the decorations, and multi-colored crepe-paper flowers peeking behind white fences produced the spring garden effect. This was the annual dance given the sophomores by the freshmen, and, with the two formals, was one of the big social affairs of the year.

APRIL SHOWERS DANCE

One hundred and forty couples, including both junior college students and alumni, tripped the light fantastic to the strains of music supplied by Bud Pentz and his local, eight-piece orchestra.

In keeping with the season, the scene suggested beautiful April time set off by innumerable spring flowers used in decoration. Overhead, the lights were covered with cylinders elaborated by the many colors of the rainbow.

Dancing was enjoyed from nine until midnight. The dance programs also followed out the theme of spring and were different from anything which had previously been used. Green covers opened to disclose the inside which was gray, the pages being separated by white cellophane.

The committee in charge of affairs was headed by George Sahler, who had for his assistants Mary Lou McManus, Kenneth McAllister, Leland Stout, William Hansen, Lois Dean, and Harriet Slapnicar.

Chaperons for the evening were Miss Myra Mather, Miss Glenna Hamill, and Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Yaggy. The faculty sponsor was Miss Betty Davies.

THE WINTER

STORMY DAYS

DECEMBER

Dear Diary:

"It was on December 3," replied Mr. Leinenweber without hesitation, "that Ralph Cissne, conductor of the Joliet Symphony Orchestra spoke at the Current Events Club."

I remember the morning of December 24 as if it were yesterday. I was scampering along the corridor in great haste to lighten my 27-pound burden of books, when I suddenly found myself looking into the filthy, soapy face of a wet mop! "Good morn—", I began, ending with a "gumph!" when it became disgustingly affectionate. After I had coughed over two vile, worm-like threads until I was purple in the ears, a dirty pail was clamped over my head, and I was dragged out of the building by my shoelaces and stuffed into a mailbox. "And stay there," roared an inelegant voice, "until January 4. Merry Christmas."

In response to a well-phrased interrogation Coach Wills replied that I was not speaking English. Messrs. Fargo and Walser merely scratched each other's heads and continued their conversation, but Mr. Wykoff generously threw something into my lap before making his exit. It was Coach Wills' calendar. A note dated December 26 reads, "Centenary College of Louisiana tonight. Joliet will win by a point."

JANUARY

Although I was willing to inspect her diary myself, Miss Brennan decided that she was the one to look up the date of Jay Berwanger's appearance at College Club. It was January 11.

I have some bills all dated January 19, for new glasses, treatment for a shattered tooth, some liniment, and a raw steak. I surmise that it was on this day, immediately after the last final examination, that I presented myself at a noisy table in the library and quoted Miss Brennan and Messrs. Allen, Carlin, and Burgard a passage from How to Study in College.

Not until I realized that my ear was being stretched about two and a half feet from my head was I cognizant of Miss Mather's presence. "That is not my calendar," she said, as she jammed my head between the legs of ex-president Lincoln. "That is my diary." But how else could one learn that on January 21 the Costume Dance was an extraordinary success?

FEBRUARY

Although she was talking over three telephones at the same time, dictating a letter, writing out absence blanks, balancing one of her budgets, and tying her shoe, Mrs. Kirby found a way of telling me that it was on February 12 that the W. A. A. gave its first sports party.

Mr. Wills' desk calendar establishes the indisputable fact that on February 13 his team removed the trousers from Thornton Junior College and won the conference championship (and incidentally, dear sir, I have premonitions that I shall soon become damn weary of this correspondence), but on the eighteenth day five extraordinary men from Honolulu gave his boys 52 pains in the necks to their 39.

A note for February 27 says, "Bet the referee five bucks that Joliet would lick LaGrange and cop the state title. He won."

MR. EDWARD L. MAYO

Mr. E. L. Mayo, the genial sponsor of the College Club, has held that position for many years, proving his popularity. He plans monthly programs which will be of interest to the students, and the first Monday of the month is never a dull evening. He is versatile in his selection of entertainers; but whatsoever his choice may be, magician, war correspondent, football star, it is sure to be novel and entertaining.

Mr. Mayo's winning personality is instrumental in his ability to persuade bashful students to perform for amateur night. He must scout around uncovering the talent of modest collegians; but his task is only begun, for he has to wheedle and coax to secure a promise to perform. His efforts are amply rewarded by the unusually large turn-out and the enthusiasm of the students, which talent night always excites.

The climax to Mr. Mayo's entertainment compaign is the college picnic held at the close of school in an effort to bring together once more the student body, after the graduation of the sophomores. It is truly a picnic for the students, but not for Mr. Mayo, who has to worry about ants, flies, and melting ice-cream. We hope the marvelous time had by the students is compensation enough and a true expression of our appreciation.

S: I said, "Well?"

Mr. Y: Well, what?

S: Just well.

(Pause.)

Mr. Y: Well, well ——

S: Well.

Mr. Y: Thanks.

('Nother pause.)

Mr. Y: Isn't this a funny situation?

S: Did you want to see me?

Mr. Y: No.

S: My error. Guess I'll go.

(Enter Miss Stadler.)

Miss Stadler: Hello, Frank. Well——.

S: Well?

(Sigh from Mr. Yaggy.)

Miss S: Well —— ('nother sigh) are you ready?

S: Ready for what?

Miss S: To have your picture taken with the sophomore officers. Didn't you get a call from the office?

S: Am I a sophomore officer?

Miss S: Yes, vice-president.

S: Oh. (Sits down, chin in hands. Enter Henry Luccock.)

Luccock: Hello.

Mr. Y: Hello.

L: Well?

Mr. Y: Well?

Miss S: (Looking up from her work.) Well ——.

S: WELL!

Miss S: (To herself) Such funny people. (To Luccock) Are you ready to have your picture taken with the sophomore officers? You're president, you know.

L: Oh. Sure I'm ready.

(Enter Harold Levy.)

Harold: Well —— OUCH! Do you always kick harmless photographers in the shins, Frank?

(Enter Claire Donoghue.)

Claire: Well —— Frank Skoff, are you going to kick me?

S: (quaking) No'm.

L. Sit down and have your picture took. You're secretary-treasurer of the sophomore class.

(They seat themselves at Miss Stadler's desk.)

L: Well, here we are.

C: So what?

L: Well — Ouch! We're the sophomore officers.

C: So what?

S: Have we done anything?

Mr. Y: Haven't you ever heard of honorary offices?

C, L, and S: Huh?

Mr. Y: When the members of your class open their annuals in years to come, they'll remember you as their chosen representatives. You were honored because you have upheld the reputation of the class in scholarship and service.

(Claire, Luccock, and Skoff blush.)

Mr. Y: It's a good class to represent.

S: We've had a keen Blazer.

D: Wait'll you see the yearbook.

L: Have the 37's done anything without the 36's, though?

D: The sophomores put on a nice Mixer without assistance. Got everyone acquainted—especially the freshmen.

L: College Club's been run by sophomore officers. And the Current Events Club.

D: Most of the clubs. But the freshmen have done a lot of dirty work.

L: It's a swell class coming up.

S: There haven't been many Student Councils more wide awake than this one.

L: I think the sophomores had something to do with one of the scrappiest basketball teams we've ever had, and with the rest of our athletic fame.

D: I know some sophomores with a lot of brains, too.

S: Don't forget Chuck Carlin was president of the class last year. I guess you had my job, Hank and Jane Brennan had Claire's job. They put on a swell dance and spring banquet.

L: Wasn't it a thirty-sevener who started the Men's Rifle Club last year?

Harold: Ready? Wipe the tears out of your eyes, Claire. They'll make a blur. I never take pictures of people blowing their noses, Frank. Stop chewing on that French book, Hank. It doesn't look nice. Ready?

Pfft!

L: That's that.

C: I gotta do my Lit.

S: See you in the yearbook.

DEBATE

Good work, Debate Teams! After trying for four years to be undisputed champions of the conference, Joliet came through with a winning team.

Much of the credit for this victory was due to the untiring work of Mr. Myers, the debate coach of the champion team.

Out of ten scheduled debates Joliet had eight victories. One debate was lost early in the season to the Harvey negative team, and another was indefinitely postponed with the North Park affirmative team. Joliet's nearest rival in the conference suffered at least three defeats.

This year's question for debate was: Resolved, that all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated.

The affirmative was upheld by Ray Watson and Henry Luccock, and the negative side by Orrin Long, Helen Kelly, and George Sahler.

A debate class was held the first semester by Mr. Myers to instruct aspiring debaters in the theory and technique of debate, and provide a foundation for the year's debate question. Places on the team, however, were not restricted to those attending the class, but were open on a competitive basis to all college students. At the end of the debate season, keys were given to members of the debate team.

Due to graduation all experienced debaters but Orrin Long will leave places vacant on the team. Let's have them filled with championship material.

JUNIOR COLLEGE CHOIR

During the second semester of the year, the present Junior College choir was organized at the request of the music students who desired to further their musical experience along this line. More than thirty students responded to the first call.

The members have worked diligently thruout the semester and have appeared on College Club programs. A representative number of the group were members of the "Chimes of Normandy" cast, both in chorus and principal roles; and in this capacity called forth the highest praise of critics and patrons.

Outstanding in the choir were the special A Cappella arrangements made for the exclusive use of the Joliet organization.

According to Alex. H. Zimmerman, director of the group, the Junior College possesses a wealth of musical talent and all of the facilities for developing one of the outstanding junior collegiate choirs of the country. The group will be reorganized early in the fall, and an effort to attain this goal will be made.

"CHIMES OF NORMANDY"

Through its presentation of the "Chimes of Normandy," directed by Mr. Alex Zimmerman, the musical department brought one of the greatest audiences in the history of the school to a production in the auditorium, Friday evening, April 16.

Before a house filled with a capacity crowd of 2100 people in our auditorium, 150 students sang, danced, and dramatized a quaint old story centering about a haunted French chateau.

It opened with a colorful peasant chorus which formed the musical background.

Lois Bitterman took the role of a peasant girl, turned marchioness through a typographical error. She won great admiration from the audience with her charming and finished interpretation of the role of Serpolette. Another lead part was Betty Bippus, petite Germaine, a charming coquette who carried on a romance with Henri. Ernest Lundin was the Marquis de Corneville, a gallant cavalier whose voice added to the success of the comic opera.

The difficult role of Gaspard, aged miser, was dramatically and most artistically portrayed by Norman Bitterman. Isadore Cohen took care of the humorous business of the play.

Comedy was added thru the wig trouble of the Bailli, played by Orial Holt; Ray Walsh, who minded everyone else's business; and Ray Sahler, and Walter Skroka. Other principals contributing to the presentation were Phyllis Stone, Vera Smith, Jean Fargo, and Arlene Robinson.

The production has cleared the approximate $400 deficit of the music department. With only a few expenses to be paid out of the net gate receipts of $650, there will be marked change in the books of the music department.

BASEBALL

The J. J. C. baseball team started out the season with dismal prospects as only three veterans returned. However, under the direction of Coach Wills the Wolves gradually improved until now they are hitting along at full stride in first place in the Northern Illinois Junior College Conference race.

The Wolves started the season by defeating Naperville 3-1 in a non-conference game. Playing twice more the same week Joliet was defeated by Aurora 5-3 and by Chicago Normal 7-3. Then the Wolves started to move and have compiled a five game winning streak starting with a 12-9 victory over Aurora in a return engagement.

The following week the Wolves won their first two conference games, defeating Lisle 3-2 and Morton 12-3 behind the fine pitching of Ray McGrath. Taking time out from conference warfare the Joliet lads in their first home game defeated St. Joseph's (Ind.) 18-9. Once more returning to conference play the Wolves defeated North Park 4-0 as Ray McGrath turned in a masterful performance on the mound. In a return game St. Joseph's College trounced the Wolves 10-5.

Three more games are scheduled for the remainder of the season, three of which are in the conference, LaGrange, Wilson, and Herzl. With the team going so well it looks as if Coach Wills may bring home another championship to add to the laurels of J. J. C.

ROTATIVE SPORTS PARTY

A rotative sports party, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association and Student Council, turned the long double gymnasium of the high school into a veritable beehive of activity on the evening of March 19.

Can't you just imagine the gaiety, give and take, and congenial mixing that was created when fourteen competitive games were in progress on this huge floor at one time?

The students were divided into teams of four players, each team competing against another team for a period of eight minutes, and then progressing in opposite directions. There were awards given to the winning and low point teams.

Oh, yes, there were refreshments served from the W. A. A. club room at the close of the games by Mary Kelly, Virginia Lindblad, and their committee.

This unique and successful evening was voted an outstanding one on the Junior College calendar. It was the result of much planning and hard work on the part of the committee in charge which consisted of the following: Dorothy Chalstrom, chairman of the event and president of the W. A. A.; Norman Bitterman, president of the student council; Henry Luccock, and Patrick McFarland. Mrs. Phoebe Ann Kirby, good friend and counsellor, was the sponsor of the party.

BASEBALL

KEN McALLISTER—center fielder. He was one of the two letter men returning to Coach Wills. He was a fine defensive outfielder, possessing a strong throwing arm. "Mac" could be counted on for his share of base hits. He played fast and head-up baseball.

ERWIN McGOVNEY—first baseman. "Tubby" was the regular catcher of last year's team but was put on first base this year. He was the team's slugger, getting many long hits and driving many team mates across the plate.

AL SCHUTTEN — catcher. This sophomore was a heady catcher who knew how to handle pitchers. He was a dangerous hitter in the pinches and his throwing arm caught many opponents off base. Al liked to play and was a hard worker.

DON ANDERSON—third baseman. Another sophomore, was a good fielder and a heavy consistent hitter for the Wolves pack. "Andy's" big bat drove out many timely hits, pushing team mates around to score, and smart fielding saved many base hits.

PAUL DIESS—right fielder. Paul was a heavy-hitting outfielder, cracking out many long hits. He could be counted on to catch anything hit to his field. Paul had a good throwing arm.

DICK McHUGH—outfielder. This freshman was a hard worker and liked to play the game. This made him an asset to the team. He saw some action as an outfielder and will be back for action next year.

BILL KNOWLES—left fielder. He was the fastest man of the Willsmen and covered left field expertly. Bill was a fine defensive player and could be counted on for his share of hits. Bill will return next year.

GORDY ARGYLE—second baseman. This sophomore hitter was an aggressive and fast fielder, stopping many balls that looked like hits. He was injured in the St. Joe game and laid up for the remainder of the season.

BOB FRANCIS—pitcher. Altho a freshman, he was a good hurler and was used as a relief pitcher, starting several games. He had speed and a lot of dope. Bob occasionally played infield when not on the mound.

RAY McGRATH—pitcher. Another freshman, was the ace of the Wolves' hurlers. Ray had a world of speed, and when he had his control, was unbeatable. He occasionally played outfield when not pitching. He will return next year.

RAY CHAPMAN — shortstop. Ray was a freshman find, filling the vacant shoes of Gene Tezak in great style. A good fielder with a great arm, Ray was a good hitter when hits were needed.

CLARENCE RIMKE — catcher. Another freshman, was a hard worker and liked to play the game. This made him an asset to the team. He saw some action as an outfielder and will be back for action next year.

INTRAMURAL TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The annual Intramural Tennis Tournament had one of its most successful years, having a strong field of competitors and the matches resulting in close scores. A total of twenty-four boys entered the field in quest of the title for Junior College including such pre-tournament favorites as John Fitzer, Bob Owens, Gordy Argyle, and George Arthurs.

The tournament was run off in smooth style and the four semi-finalists left to fight it out for the three places in the Wolves' tennis team were: Fitzer, Owens, in the upper bracket, and Arthurs and Weeks to play it out for the lower bracket championship. The result of these two matches was as follows: Fitzer beat Owens in a hard fought five set match, 6-4, 6-1, 5-7, 3-6, and 8-6. Arthurs, after nearly losing his match many times finally won out in another five set match: 6-2, 2-6, 4-6, 8-6, 6-3. In this match the slow methodical lobbing style of Weeks nearly beat Arthurs.

To reach the finals of the tournament Fitzer was forced to beat Mason, Miller, and Owens, and during his drive, Arthurs overcame Sahler, Sandstrom, Cron, and Weeks. The finals have not been played as the annual goes to press, but both boys are evenly matched and the finals should result in a hard fought match.

The three representatives for Joliet in the State meet to be held May 22 at Morton Junior College are John Fitzer, singles; and a doubles team composed of George Arthurs and Bob Owens.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

The Joliet Junior College golf tournament was won by Bill Hickey defeating John Sandstrom in the finals, two up and one to go. Of the fourteen entries which included two members of last year's championship team, Hickey and Ken McAllister, these boys were the best of the field.

The semi-finals found those freshmen, Arnold Sandstrom, Bob Johnston, and Ernest Lundin, with sophomore Bill Hickey, remaining after the early round of the tourney. Sandstrom defeated Bannon and McAllister; Johnston advanced through a bye and a victory over Oesterle to the semi-finals; Lundin won over Levinson; Hickey, the meet favorite, overwhelmed Sahler nine up with eight to go.

The two semi-final matches found Sandstrom playing Johnston in the upper bracket; and in the lower Hickey opposed Lundin. Results were victories for Sandstrom, who whipped Johnston six up and four to go; and for Hickey who won from Lundin after a hard-fought match, one up on the nineteenth green.

The finals found both boys shooting good golf, Hickey winning two up and one to go. Hickey's medal score was 81 and Sandstrom's 84.

Coach Wills entered six tournament players in the State meet at Woodridge Golf Course near Lisle, Illinois, on May 15. They were: Hickey, Sandstrom, Lundin, Johnston, McAllister, and Bannon.

SWIMMING

With an easy, smooth, and steadily progressive stroke we see MILDRED BENSON swimming in the "Y" pool in cold weather, or in one of her favorite "swimming holes" in the summer. Millie is a very athletic-minded young lady, for she also participates in horseback riding, Orchesis, and golf.

GOLF

Every co-ed's hat in J. J. C. is off to VIRGINIA LINDBLAD, who not only excels in golf, but in every other sport as well. She is really the "bestest of the bestest".

BASEBALL

FLOY MEYERS, who did not care especially for sports when she was in high school, now is in them all. Besides being head of baseball Floy is no slouch in ping pong, hockey, badminton, and others.

HORSEBACK RIDING

If the weather gives any promise of being fair, MARY LOU McMANUS can be seen in the halls wearing one of her stylish riding habits. Besides being exceedingly apt as an equestrienne, this supple miss is hard to beat on a badminton court.

TENNIS

CHARLENE CODY, young agile tennis star, is not only adept in this sport but ranks as one of the best basketball players. It was her perfect shots that made her high scorer of J. J. C.

W. A. A. SPRING SPORTS

SWIMMING

"Splash!" . . . . . ugh, glub!" Just a jack knife dive that did not develop. This happened at the "Y" one Monday night when the W. A. A. swimming group was diving. About ten of the college girls came out for this sport. They were divided into two groups, one for beginners and one for advanced swimmers. Classes were held every Monday night.

GOLF

Golf was played in both spring and fall by J. J. C. co-eds. This spring Heinie Sick, professional at Crystal Lawns Country Club, gave a series of five inside lessons and one outside lesson. He also helped with the spring tournament. Fourteen girls came out for golf. Cotton balls were used for the inside practices in driving, in proper stance, and use of the various clubs. An elimination tournament was played in the fall.

BASEBALL

The sharp crack of a bat against a baseball and the whir of a line drive as it whizzes over the second baseman's head were thrilling sounds to the girls who took part in the W. A. A.'s most active spring sport, baseball. The indoor court and soft ball were used. The college teams competed against each other and against the high school teams.

TENNIS

Spring fever, tennis, and love; and the greatest of these is tennis, according to the W. A. A. girls who went out for that sport. One of the nation's most popular games for girls, tennis develops speed in both motion and thought, as well as skill in the mechanics of the game. Early practices in the gym were devoted to technique and serving, and when the weather warmed up, the girls played outdoors.

RIDING

Horseback riding is one of the gayest, most popular activities offered by the W. A. A. The College Riding Club consisted of about fifteen members. Besides the rides on the trails at Woodruff on various days of the week, several suppers were held after the rides. On the last Saturday of school an "up and down" derby was held, testing the mounting and dismounting ability of the girls.

TIME OUT FOR SPORTS

W. A. A. REMINISCENCES

What memories these snaps recall in the minds of Jaycee girls, of the comradeship, disappointment, triumph, and laughter of the hours spent in the activities of the Women's Athletic Association!

Memories of the exultant triumph of a successful play in basketball, old No. 3, working easily, smoothly synchronized . . . . the equally exultant triumph of a stubborn, furious defense against a fighting, charging attack upon the basket . . . . the sudden, tense hush when a free throw is being tossed . . . . the mad delirium of the last seconds of a close game, the timekeeper's whistle raised, the ball arching toward the basket . . . . the keen rivalry between the college girls' team and the high school champs . . . .

New gym suits, yellow and brown, sliding around in the mud on the hockey field . . . . The surge of a hockey team down the field on a dead run . . . . the mixup in front of the goal, sticks swinging and clashing, the ball jumping and rolling, the goalie frantically blocking and pouncing . . . .

The fun we had going to play days . . . . the "splash party" at Thornton J. C. . . . . the first coeducational playday in the history of the W. A. A., held at Morton Junior College . . . . the work and fun of having our own "Canine sports day" . . . . the fun coming and going in cars of carefree young people . . . . the friendliness of joining young people from other schools . . . . the appreciation of our own school after visiting those of other Women's Athletic Associations . . . .

The keen rivalries on the shuffleboard courts . . . . the happy shrick of a girl whose carelessly lucky shove stopped on the "ten" . . . . the moan when an accurately aimed and carefully shoved disk slides easily onto the "ten-off" . . . . the crack of a black disk knocking a white disk clear out of the court . . . . the happy comradeship of lunches in the club room, with the radio playing and soft yellow lights glowing . . . . the friendly cabinet meetings with Do Chalstrom, president, saying "What do you girls think?" . . . . the understanding cooperation and guidance of Mrs. Kirby, our sponsor, and of Miss Green and Mrs. Hoyt . . . .

The snappy spirit of tap rehearsals . . . . clicking heels and clicking toes . . . . Mrs. Hoyt's nimble fingers making that piano do everything but get up and tap along with the girls . . . . the thrill of a fast gallop on a good horse . . . . the struggles of learning to ride at a trot . . . . the hilarious fun of the hamburger fry after the ride . . . . hamburgers with ketchup and ashes and laughter . . . .

Monkey business in the locker room . . . . who tied whose locker shut? . . . . and who took revenge by hiding whose shoes? . . . . Georgia Perry yelping "Wow! there goes the bell—four minutes to get up to French!" . . . . Mary Kelly saying, "All right, Cox, that's my towel!" . . . . the "click, click, click, click" in the ping pong room when there's a fast game on . . . . and the "click, click, click, SMASH!" when Bill Hickey comes down and plays (Bill's is the "smash") . . . .

Monday evenings swimming at the "Y" . . . . splashing just for fun . . . . racing in real earnest . . . . dives that went up and over perfectly, cutting the water cleanly . . . . dives that flopped awkwardly and "smartingly" . . . . the powerful feel of a solid hit in baseball as the jar from it runs down the bat, up your arms, and across your shoulders . . . . the comfortable plop of a fly into outstretched hands . . . . the arguments about who's going to play "balcony" when two games are going at once on the short diamond in the gym . . . .

The excitement of a fast tennis game . . . . the tight matches in the girls' tournament . . . . the shivering "Wha-a-a-ng" of a tennis ball hitting a broken racquet string . . . . the short, solid "whang" of a well-hit serve . . . . new white stone paths leading to the courts . . . . shrubs leafing out along the wire fence . . . . lilacs in bloom beside the courts . . . . the first sunburn of the season . . . .

Memories . . . . trivial, perhaps . . . . but priceless.

SPRIG HAS CUB

MARCH

Dear Diary,

"That is not my locker key," said Jane Brennan, sinking her fingernails into the hand which I had just removed from her pocketbook. "That is my diary. Zellner, the impersonator, was at College Club on March 8."

"Abigail! Abirino! Adlib! The second Sports Night . . . . Anderson! Aquaski . . . . was held . . . . Arspotti! Asp! Awheck . . . on March 19," said Mrs. Kirby in the middle of a roll call, "and don't forget . . . Axlesprain! Axiovitch . . . . the two gyms and the doughnuts."

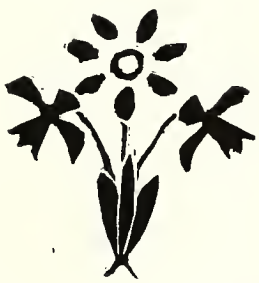
Dear Diary, wasn't it the following Monday that I discovered myself in a mail box, masticating the beard of a wet mop, while a familiar voice roared, "And stay there until next Monday. Happy Easter"?

Coach Wills' calendar for March 20 says, "Don't forget to wash my chin." It must have been on this day that his mandibular extremity swept the floors of the locker room because of the extraordinary length of his visage, which was a consequence of the season's first baseball practice.

APRIL

"And how are you today, sir?" I asked of ex-President Lincoln whom Miss Mather had just jammed my head between the legs of. "If you are a scholar, sir, record in your memory the date of April 9, the date of the April Showers Dance. I wish you were bowlegged, sir."

Quietly I slipped behind the rail in the main office and helped myself to a copy of the auditorium calendar. To my infinite astonishment its owner suddenly removed the roller from her typewriter and dealt me a blow across the knuckles which I shall never forget. Realizing that I had forgotten conventionalities, I quickly responded with a "How do you do," whereupon she inserted the roller into my mouth and pushed with amazing strength. I took my departure, coughing violently. But on April 16 several golden-voiced junior collegians helped pack the auditorium for "The Chimes of Normandy."



No one has forgotten April 19, the day when Coach Wills smiled again. His lads beat the pants offa' North Central in the season's opener.

"Get out of the library," said Miss Dillman. "Stop this animated conversation and get out of the hall," said Miss Dickinson. "Sh!" said somebody else in 235. Yi Yi! But Charles Mason took pity and whispered in my ear "The intramural golf and tennis tournaments began on April 26."

MAY-JUNE

"College talent," said Jane Brennan, "was the feature of the last College Club meeting of the year on May 3. I am not blinking."

"It is against the policy of the school," said Dr. Haggard, tapping me on the shoulder, "to allow junior collegians to write diaries with their heads jammed between the legs of ex-President Lincoln." But Dr. Haggard would not saw off the legs of my friend, Mr. Lincoln, so here I am today, Dear Diary, reminiscing on the most magnificent dance in the history of the school, the Spring Formal of May 21, looking forward to reading my year book, which has been issued today, May 25, and wondering if Miss Mather will find the key to this padlock, which is contributing an element of permanency to my sojourn between the legs of ex-President Lincoln, before the College Picnic next Saturday, May 29, or the annual Junior College Banquet of June 2, or at least by Commencement, which is scheduled for June 5. And that, Dear Diary, and Dear Martha, is that.
